“My name is Banjo and I’m 16 months old, my parents and human brothers told me I needed to be like them and go to my doctor and have a check-up. I was somewhat nervous, however I went and the doctor told my parents I had heartworms a couple of weeks ago.

I love to play outside and since I live in one of the highest populated areas of mosquitoes, unfortunately one of those bit and infected me. I am now on advantage plus which takes care of all those yucky parasites, and my mom will give me that every month, however Dr. Sullivan told me that I need to get rid of the adults worms that are attached to my heart. My parents didn’t want these to grow inside of me and cause further damage to my heart and lungs.

My doctor said the treatment is in four stages, first I have to be on an antibiotic then I go to the vet for stage 1 where I spend two days, then I get to go home and be on restriction (not be too active) and then last two stages. In the last one the hope and prayer is my antigen test will be negative.

We thank everyone who has made it possible for Banjo to be treated and Paws4acure has been fantastic, without this his condition would have worsened and we want him to live his life to the fullest!!!!!!!!!!”
