Peanut needs surgery to remove two lumps, one being the very large tumor in his testicle, the other a growing tumor on his upper leg. He's also been diagnosed with a very enlarged heart/heart disease. Peanut also now requires regular medications. One rx is for chronic diarrhea, the other (for which he has been on for many, many months) is antibiotics for some respiratory infection that never resolves itself because it is resulting from infections with Peanut's teeth (he will be needing extractions). These prescriptions cost $107.00 per month, which of course, I can't afford. The vet also has him on a Hills Science diet for gastrointestinal problems that is expensive ($30. for a 12-can case) and only available at the veterinarian's office.

I love Peanut with all of my heart and want him to share my life for as long as possible. I appreciate Paws 4 A Cure for any financial assistance they may provide. I went to the vet's to get Peanut's nails cut, and I left in a daze as I learned off all of the conditions Peanut has developed seemingly "out of nowhere". I can't give up on Peanut, my soft, snuggly little guy and pray there will be a way to enable us to remain together for a long time to come, if possibly.

On behalf of Peanut and myself, I would like to thank all for their donation. And a thank you must also be extended to all those who volunteer their precious time and energy to help Paws 4 A Cure in myriad other ways. Without this assistance, I could not enable my pet and companion to get the treatment he so direly needs. Paws 4 A Cure relies on the generosity of donors such as yourself and is grateful for your support, as I certainly am. Likewise, I am extremely thankful for all donors who take the time to share their generosity and to help those in need. Thank you once again.
